The tide of defeat still surges heavily against the German armies in France and Flanders. The British and French have made gains in four sectors. The entire German front from Ypres, in Belgium, to Soissons, on the Aisne, is seriously menaced.

French troops of General Mangin, operating from the region two miles northwest of Soissons to the Oise river, and those of General Humbert, fighting between the Oise and the Marne, have made gains in four sectors. The entire German front from Ypres, in Belgium, to Soissons, on the Aisne, is seriously menaced.

Further to the north, between Albert and Arras, Field Marshal Haig has followed up his successes of previous days by a new offensive over a front of about ten miles and driven forward his troops for splendid gains over the entire line, capturing a number of villages, taking prisoners and guns and inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy.

Still further north, in the famous Lys sector, a general eastward advance on a front of more than four miles has been made by the British, who have brought their position to a point nearer the old 1916 battle line running east of Arras.

Numerous additional villages have been liberated by the French north of Soissons, and the British have captured on both sides of the Oise river which seemingly make unobtainable for occupation by the enemy. The important town of Noyon, which is now outflanked on the southeast and dominated by the French guns from the south and east, is being held by the French.

On the Lys salient the Germans have delivered a violent counter-attack in an endeavor to recoup in part their losses in the Lys sector. Their efforts, however, were fruitless, for the British everywhere withstood their assaults and pushed back the enemy beyond the points of his departure.

What is to be the effect of the allied drives along the 130 mile battle line from Ypres to Soissons cannot be foretold at present, but it seems highly probable that this entire front must be re-organized. The particular menace to the Germans, aside from that in the territory between the Somme and the Oise, appears to be the advance of the British from the south and east, which is now outflanked on the southeast and dominated by the French guns from the south and east.

On the Lys salient the Germans have delivered a violent counter-attack in an endeavor to recoup in part their losses in the Lys sector. Their efforts, however, were fruitless, for the British everywhere withstood their assaults and pushed back the enemy beyond the points of his departure.

British Independent Labor For International Conference.
London, August 21, (By A. P.)—The Independent Labor party today issued a manifesto and urged British labor leaders to reunite and to assemble in an international conference. International Socialism and labor, the manifesto said, possess the means of initiating a settlement of the war by negotiation.

Former U. S. Employees German Troops Show May Be Reinstated a Spirit of Revolt

New York, Aug. 21.—All former employees of the Western Union Telegraph company who were discharged because of their affiliation with the Commercial Telegraphers' union of America during the recent difficulties between the company and the union, before the company was taken over by the government, will have the privilege of reinstatement, it was announced by the company today.

Vice President Atkins of the company made the following statement: "Conforming with the policy laid down by the government, all former employees of the Western Union Telegraph company released solely because of the affiliation with the Commercial Telegraphers' union of America are now eligible for re-employment with the company."

Between 500 and 700 men are affected by the ruling, Mr. Atkins added. "The difficulties between the Western Union and the telegraphers, which involved a threat of strike, arose from the refusal of the company to deal with the union. The company discharged employees who were members of the union, and organized an association of its non-union employees with which it announced it would deal exclusively."

According to Mr. Palmer, the Williams and Crowell Color Company, Inc., was organized with dummy directors and officers, and was used to secure the company's business. The company was organized by Mr. Palmer, and was used to secure the company's business.

GERMANS TURN TRAWLER RABBIT

Navy Department is Confident of the Capture or Destruction of Trawler Triumph Which Was Seized by a German Submarine on the Fishing Banks.

A Canadian Atlantic Port, Aug. 21.—The fishing schooner Lucille Schenck of Lunenburg, N. S., was sunk today by the trawler Triumph, which a German submarine crew has converted into a raider. Both bombs and gunfire were used. The crew arrived at Lunenburg tonight.

Members of the crew said that the Pasadena, another fishing vessel, was in the vicinity when the Schenck was sunk after the Germans had finished with the Pasadena. The crew of the Pasadena had been reported as having reached shore late tonight.

AT LEAST FOUR FISHING VESSELS HAVE BEEN SUNK.

A Canadian Atlantic Port, Aug. 21.—The operations of the steamer Triumph, manned by a crew from a German submarine, have resulted in the sinking of four fishing vessels, and probably others, according to reports at hand tonight.

Schooners known to have been sunk are the Tna, of Lunenburg, N. S., the A. Platt of Gloucester, Mass., and the Francis J. Hara of Gloucester, Mass.

The Hara, which was reported as having been sighted in the vicinity of the Tna, had reached port safely tonight.

A fifth vessel, the Pasadena, was in the vicinity when the Tna was sent down and it was believed that she shared the fate of the other fishermen, although no direct news of her has been received.

This would result in German officers might hope, in a large force being held along the
